The BULLETIN editorial office had a pleasant call this morning from C. M. Heintz, owner of the Rural Californian, also secretary of the National Irrigation Association. He expressed himself as greatly pleased with the country, the officials and the people.

The native man, Makaula, who was arrested yesterday for stealing a keg of butter from Lewis & Co., was not in the employ of that firm at all. He has been, in times past, given an occasional day's work there and was loitering about the premises yesterday. When the opportunity offered he stole quietly into one of the rear entrances and, shouldering the keg, walked off with it.

and all the men and women merely cyclists is a truer adaptation of an old familiar quotation than would appear at first glance. We are a trifle behind the times in Honolulu as far as cycling is concerned.

In Washington, D. C., two thousand men and women formed in procession a few weeks ago. If they rode six abreast, a column ten miles long would be the result; three abreast would mean a line twenty miles in length.

JOSEPH NAWAHI'S REMAINS.

Arrangements to Forward them on the Kinan Fall Through.

The two native societies Aloha Aina and Kalaiaia had made arrangements with undertaker E. A. Williams to take charge of the remains of Joseph Nawahi on their arrival on the Australia and transfer them to the Kinan for shipment to Hawaii, and when the Australia docked this morning Mr. Williams was on hand with a hearse and four fine black horses. The wharf was crowded to suffocation with some three or four thousand natives who had intended to follow the hearse after the two societies.

When Mr. Williams went on the steamer for the body he was informed that it was consigned to H. H. Williams instead of E. A. Williams and as the Board of Health permit to land the body was made out in the name of the consignee it could not be delivered to anyone else. J. K. Kaula and others who had the matter in charge conferred with H. H. Williams, who refused to acquiesce in a proposal to let the remains be conveyed from the steamer in his brother's hearse. There being nothing else to do E. A. Williams ordered his hearse driven back to the stable and the native societies not knowing what arrangements would be made dispersed. Shortly afterwards H. H. Williams' hearse with four bay horses was driven to the wharf and the body delivered to the consignee. It was taken to the undertaking parlors first and later to the late residence of the deceased at Palama, from whence it will be shipped to Hawaii on the steamer Hawaii tomorrow.

Anyone entering the Anchor saloon during business hours, or in the evening, is immediately charmed by the handsome array of game birds—teal duck, mallard, quail, grouse, etc.—which decorates the bar. They are all stuffed as you will be, with rich, nourishing beer, cold and clear, and with the palatable viands of the lunch counter. The Seattle beer, fine wines and liquors are of the best quality and always fresh. Every Australia brings a large consignment and Mr. Cunningham uses every idea which his massive brain suggests, to please his patrons. The Anchor is now the most popular saloon in town. 1 and 3 King street.

EUCHRED THE GOVERNMENT.

W. H. Crawford Gets Away with Eight Hundred Dollars.

Last evening Captain Parker and a posse of police visited the old Chinese theater and arrested twenty-eight performers, supers and employees besides W. H. Crawford, the manager, for performing without a license. The Chinese protested against the arrest, claiming that Crawford had taken out the license. They were all marched to the police station, and, with the exception of Crawford, soon afterwards bailed out by Wing Wo Chan, who put up a check for $2800 as bail money.

Later developments show that the Chinese have been victimized by Crawford, who has systematically been plundering the government and deceiving his partners. It appears that Crawford has been the one entrusted with obtaining the license for the daily performances and has been given $5 daily by the treasurer of the theater for the purpose. He went to the Marshal daily with his application for a license and got it endorsed. Instead of going to the Interior office and getting the license he tore up the application and appropriated the money.

The theater managers claim to be able to show that they have paid Crawford $5 per day regularly since April 13th to pay for the license, and as they have not been notified to the contrary believed it was being regularly issued. The books of the Interior office show that the only licenses issued were for the week during which the Elsie Adair Company performed.

The loss to the government since April 13th is about $800. Crawford has some property which he will probably have to disgorge. The cases have not yet been set for trial.

Ex-policeman Welau Kumano, who brutally kicked a drunken man the other night and was discharged from the force last Sunday, pleaded guilty to a charge of assault and battery in the District Court this morning and was sentenced to three months' hard labor.

Captain John Good received word by today's steamer of the serious illness of his mother, who resides in Los Angeles, California. He will leave on the Australia next Saturday.

Sales Talk

With Hood's Sarsaparilla, "Sales Talk," and show that this medicine has enjoyed public confidence and patronage to a greater extent than any other proprietary medicine. This is because it possesses greater medicinal merit and produces greater cures than any other. It is not what we say, but what Hood's Sarsaparilla does, that Tells the Story.

All advertisements of Hood's Sarsaparilla, like Hood's Sarsaparilla itself, are honest. We have never deceived the public, and this with its superlative medicinal merit, is why the people have abiding confidence in it, and buy Hood's Sarsaparilla almost to the exclusion of all others.

Customers Want Hood's.
"We order Hood's Sarsaparilla in large quantities and it is the only blood purifier which a druggist can buy in large quantities without risk. It is selling very rapidly and customers who buy it once are sure to call for Hood's the next time. We believe Hood's Sarsaparilla must possess true merit in order to retain its popularity. Its sales exceed all similar preparations and its praises are often heard." L. SOMMER & SON, Springfield, Illinois. Thousands of druggists say the same.
